DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1744

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watkins '409 in view of any one of Kuhn U.S. patent No. 5,364,027 or Dearling U.S. patent No. 4,084,732 or Harrison U.S. patent No. 3,972,473.

Watkins teaches the a method and apparatus for the provision of a plurality of fragrance liquids for vaporization, as well as means for heating a fragrance-loaded wick means for effective release of the scent. Fragrance release being perpetuated in a controlled, timed application.

All of Kuhn, Dearling and Harrison teach the known and expected method and configuration of supply both continuous and intermittent fragrance to an area, wherein a spray mechanism releases a burst of fragrance as well as refreshing a continually vaporizing absorbent loaded with fragrance. The references are silent as to the provision of two fragrances.

It would have been well within the purview of one of ordinary skill in the art to configure Watkins such that both continuous and time-controlled intermittent release of different fragrance vapors is achieved as in Kuhn, Dearling and Harrison because such release would effectively address varying/cyclic user needs, such as masking the unpleasant odor that may accompany the release of an insecticidal vapor.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
